

2008 Welcome

The days fly by and it would seem that the older I get the faster they fly by. So it goes. This year looks to be a tough year for getting good writing done. I am doing that desk job thing and well that takes a lot of time away from a guy. That also takes me out of the firehouse and off of the fire ground. My work now revolves around paper, the paper the supports the back-end of the fire service. I am happy, I am learning a lot, and I will try to keep at least one article a month coming.

Civilians are still dying in houses without smoke detectors, firefighters are still dying, kids are still dying in crashes without car seats, I still need to lose more weight along with a lot of other people. Oh man it is going to be a long year but we do what needs to be done because it is our way.

Luckily for me Bill Carey sent some stuff at the end of last year and well I cheated and saved it for this year. I knew then that I would be needing the help. As we move forward into the New Year I hope to demonstrate how much I have changed in my approach over the last few years. The closer I get to the truth the less certain I am that it even exists. So it goes another year, enjoy.

charles bailey